

I do not see the big deal about XM radio, meaning providing music and weather is just part of the service. We the customers pay for this service which they provide us. If they didnt we wouldnt pay them. They offer for a reasonable fee an alterantive, a choice. Free will is somethin that can not be controled. People have the right to make choices concerning themselves. I made the choice to purchase this service because i wasnt satisfied with regular radio. If some just wants to know the forecast for the afternoon they should be able to simply turn the channel and find that out if they missed it on the morning news. If bad conditions are coming and the person doesnt know about it, it could cause harm to that individual. The chances of that are low, but it is possible. i'm just saying, that XM radio poses a threat to clear channel radio stations and big business should do something to be competative instead of just trying to weaken their competors with political influence and laws.

thanks.
